18. 다음 글을 쓴 목적으로 가장 적절한 것은? [1점]

At least seventy percent of traffic accidents are the result of human error, which can be avoided. A lot of accidents are caused by drivers' carelessness. Always remember: driving an automobile means that you are taking the responsibility to operate a potentially dangerous machine. The possibility of an accident increases if you are under the influence of alcohol or drugs. Avoid driving if you are under the influence of alcohol or drugs.

* potentially 잠재적으로

① to invite
② to advise
③ to refuse
④ to complain
⑤ to advertise

19. 다음 글의 종류로 가장 적절한 것은? [1점]

The musical "Grease" is being held at the Great Musical Center through October 29. The musical Grease is about thrill-loving students of Rydel High School. It shows their worries, love, and friendship. It was performed in Korea in 1994 and in 1998, and has returned again this year. This year's Grease is more energetic than ever. With witty words and comical gestures, main characters play their roles perfectly. However, the speedy tempo is a little hard to follow and sometimes makes it difficult for the audience to understand the story fully.

24. _____ is like a diet. But instead of counting calories, you count pennies. First of all, you have to know how much money you make. Then, you need to budget your expenses. If you follow this process, you can have some money left over. That's the money you can plan to save. And the most important part is to make a list of your expenses. For example, when you're grocery-shopping, only buy what's on your list and nothing more. If you want to buy milk, just make sure you only buy the milk. [3점]

① Buying milk ② Saving money
③ Making products ④ Collecting coins
⑤ Counting numbers

25. 다음 글에 나타난 필자의 심경으로 가장 적절한 것은? [2점]

My grandmother was the daughter of a farmer who lived near a country town. When she was young, she used to complain that life gave her few opportunities to meet people and offered her little chance of education. But that was fifty years ago. We still live in the same farmhouse. We still enjoy the peace of the countryside and the quiet of the woods, but our life is very different from that of our grandparents. The reason is that inventions such as record players and TV have greatly extended the range of our eyes and ears.

A good conductor such as copper has only very low electrical resistance. It does not get very hot when electricity flows through it, making copper suitable for household wiring. Other metals such as iron and nickel have much greater resistance to the passage of electricity, so they become hot. A very thin wire has more resistance than a thick one, and a long wire has more resistance than a short wire. In an electric stove, coils of thin and high resistance wire produce heat when an electrical current passes through them.

33. We spend about one third of our life asleep, but no one is sure why this is necessary. During deep sleep, the body produces large amounts of growth hormone that help to repair or replace damaged cells. Sleep also speeds healing. While you are sleeping, the brain remains very active. The body goes through stages of being relaxed, and other stages when the eyes move about beneath closed eyelids. Scientists say that this process helps us to cure different diseases. [2점]

① The Types of Sleep ② The Kinds of Disease
③ The Amount of Sleep ④ The Causes of Disease
⑤ The Necessity of Sleep

34. A good speech requires several elements. The first is to always stay on topic. When you go off on the topic, it's difficult for your audience to catch your thought. It is also important to understand who your audiences are. If your audiences know nothing about computers, using high-tech computer terms only confuses them. Finally, you should always keep things simple. Using big words and complex sentences does not mean that you are a genius. So keep these points in mind, and your speeches should be successful. [1점]

① What a Good Topic Is
② Importance of Audience
③ Usefulness of Computers
④ How to Make a Good Speech

③ 올바른 근무 자세
④ 취업 면접에 임하는 요령
⑤ 원만한 대인관계 유지 방법

36. 다음 글에서 필자가 주장하는 바로 가장 적절한 것은? [1점]

Our family recently attended my daughter's high school graduation. During the ceremony, a man's cell phone began ringing. He talked in a loud voice over the phone. This happens everywhere nowadays — business meetings, movies, and plays. I have tried to politely ask the offender to "keep it down", or to move to a quieter place, but sometimes it's impossible. These days a lot of people use cell phones. But if they are used thoughtlessly, they create very real problems. Of course people should follow proper etiquette and turn cell phones off at public events.

[47～48] 다음 글을 읽고 물음에 답하시오.

(A)

Professor Agassiz believed practice is as important as theory. Therefore, he trained his laboratory students to practice a lot. One student had an interesting experience during one of Agassiz's classes. Agassiz gave him a large box filled with bones, and told him to do something with them. The student examined them and discovered they were bones of several different kinds of fish. He started to put them together and reconstructed the bodies of fish.

(B)

Before Professor Osler went to John Hopkins University, American medical students studied books and heard lectures, but they were not shown how to connect theory with practice. Osler introduced the method of teaching medicine by using patients as books. Instead of discussing an illness in a lecture room, he explained it at the bedside of a man suffering from the illness.

[49～50] 다음 글을 읽고 물음에 답하시오.

I am my mother's third child, born when she was 30. When I was born, nurses took me from the room before she could see me. Her doctor gently explained that my left arm was missing below the elbow. Then he gave her some advice: "Don't treat her any differently than the other girls. Demand more." And she did!

Even before my father left us, my mother had to go back to work to support our family. There were five of us girls in our home, and we all had to help out. Once when I was about seven, I came out of the kitchen, complaining, "Mom, I can't peel potatoes. I only have one hand." Mom never looked up from sewing. "You get yourself into that kitchen and peel those potatoes," she told me. "And don't ever use that as an excuse for anything again!" Of course I could peel potatoes—with my good hand, while holding them down with my other arm. After that, Mom would say, "If you try hard enough, you can do anything."

49. 윗글의 내용을 속담으로 표현할 때 가장 적절한 것은? [3점]
