18. 밑줄 친 This(this)가 가리키는 것으로 가장 적절한 것은?

This is one of the virtues that everyone should have. In our society everything moves fast. On TV shows, major problems are often resolved in half an hour. And with millions of people using e-mail, life is moving more and more at "Internet Speed." As a result, many people lack this, and they want to have instant satisfaction. In this fast moving society, this is very important to all of us.

① patience ② kindness ③ courage
④ honesty ⑤ diligence

19. 다음 글의 밑줄 친 부분의 의미로 가장 적절한 것은?

What is popular today may be out of date tomorrow. Cars of today are different from those of the nineties. Our parents wore suits with wide trousers and dresses with padded shoulders; our trousers today are different. Style changes so quickly that one never knows if a particular dress is stylish or unfashionable. So if you like the clothes you're wearing, and the fashion changes—don't worry about it! You probably couldn't catch up anyway.

① 패션에 대한 안목을 가진 사람은 드물다.
② 유행은 돌고 돌아 옛날 것이 다시 유행한다.
③ 사람들은 최신 유행에 매력을 느끼지 못한다.
④ 유행을 따르는 데에는 돈이 많이 든다.
⑤ 유행은 너무 빠르게 변해서 따라잡기 어렵다.

20. 다음 글에서 Kerry가 겪은 심경의 변화로 가장 적절한 것은?

The room was so silent that one could have heard a pin drop. Kerry watched as the verdict was passed over to the judge. He opened the envelope. At the sound of paper tearing, her heart was thumping. The judge cleared his throat, and drew in a breath of air. "After hearing from both sides in this court, and listening to all the events throughout the past five years, the court has decided to rule in favor of Mr. Paul Martin," the judge announced. Kerry felt the ground fall from beneath her. She was speechless. Now all was lost. * verdict 평결

① sad ➡ pleased ② horrified ➡ proud
③ worried ➡ relieved ④ delighted ➡ angry
⑤ nervous ➡ disappointed

21. 다음은 사전에 제시된 어떤 어구에 대한 설명의 일부이다. 빈칸에 공통으로 들어갈 어구로 가장 적절한 것은? [1점]

1. to prepare or arrange something: Could you _____ a list of all the things we need?
2. to form as a whole: Farming and mining _____ most of the country's industry.
3. to become friendly with someone again after an argument: Why don't you two forget your differences and _____?

① break out ② get through ③ make up
④ set off ⑤ take in

[22~25] 다음 글을 읽고, 빈칸에 가장 적절한 것을 고르시오.

22. Many people have been thinking of the possibility of _____. But we aren't really at that point yet. Why? The first reason is safety. Different nations have sent more than thirty probes toward Mars, but only one-third of them have survived the trip. The second reason is cost. It costs about a million dollars per kilogram to deliver robots to Mars. It would take at least fifty billion dollars to get a person to Mars. The last reason is the cosmic radiation that astronauts would absorb during the mission. Much of this radiation is blocked on Earth by the Earth's magnetic field. Mars has no magnetic field. * probe 탐사선

① sending human beings to Mars
② exploring Mars by using robots
③ finding any form of life on Mars
④ receiving signals from Mars
⑤ collecting rocks in Mars

23. Because of technological advances, now more than ever before, _____ is hard to achieve. For example, if you use a credit card, every charge you make is on a database that police, among others, can check. If you use an automatic bank teller, the bank records the time, date, and location of your transaction. Those bank records can be checked by anyone who has your Social Security number. If you browse the Web, you should also know that many sites record what you looked at and when you were surfing. Some web sites have been known to share information about who's been looking at what sites.

① true friendship
② personal privacy
③ cultural development
④ real communication
⑤ economic independence

24. In 1986, the BBC developed the Domesday Project. It was named after the Domesday Book which had been made to register the lands of the British in the 11th century. The project's purpose was to store information on life in Britain in the 1980s in the form of digital data. A lot of video clips, texts, maps, and pictures showing British people's lives were stored in dozens of laser discs. But now after 18 years, the data in the laser discs are unreadable. By contrast, the original Domesday Book is in fine condition. "The Domesday Project has become an example of the problem of _____," said a computer expert. "We're lucky Shakespeare didn't write on an old PC."

① digital data storage ② the latest computer
③ keeping books clean ④ broadcasting project
⑤ data recorded on paper

25. When honeybees fly in a garden, they may seem to skip from flower to flower at random. Most people don't know why bees choose one flower over another. But the bees know why. In fact, when searching for flowers' nectar, they _____. Bees get nectar from dandelions only in the morning. Around noon, it's the time for the cornflowers. In the afternoon, bees take off for the red clover. Honeybees go to each kind of flower at the time of day when it gives off the most nectar. * cornflower 동자꽃

① choose flowers at random
② follow an exact timetable
③ give off their typical odors
④ can tell the direction of wind
⑤ are attracted by flowers' fragrance

26. The most important lessons can't be taught. No one can teach us how to get along with others or how to have self-respect. As we grow from children into teenagers, no one can teach us how to deal with peer pressure. As we enter adult life, no one can teach us how to fall in love and get married. As we enter into new stages in our lives, the advice of adults can be very helpful because they have already had similar experiences. But experiencing our own triumphs and disasters is really the only way to learn how to deal with life.

① 인생에서 경험의 중요성 ② 어른이 된다는 것의 의미
③ 가치관 정립의 필요성 ④ 학교 교육이 필요한 이유
⑤ 청소년기가 삶에 미치는 영향

27. Overall good health is composed of five unique spheres of wellness: the physical, the mental, the family and social, the spiritual, and the material. Picture the Olympic symbol with five interlocking rings. Like the Olympic rings, the five spheres of wellness overlap and interact. Most of us have experienced the way the spheres affect another. To live a happy life, you must have good health in all five spheres. Knowing which areas need improvement and which are already healthy is the key to increasing your happiness.

① social interactions between individuals
② the relationship between mind and body
③ psychological benefits of social activities
④ the responsibility of taking care of one's family
⑤ the importance of balance for a happy life

28. 다음 글을 쓴 목적으로 가장 적절한 것은?

"Think globally, act locally." This action has never been more important than today. After the wars in Iraq, many of us struggle with how to build peace in the world today. The organization of local residents, Community Voices, invites all residents in this city to join us in a peace walk this Sunday. The walk will begin at 1:00 p.m. in front of City Hall and proceed along Route 140 to Foxboro Park. At the end of the walk a short peace ritual and a musical performance will be led by local artists. Refreshments will be served. Vans along the route will provide rides for those who wish to walk just part of the way.

Imagine your brain as a house ① filled with lights. Now imagine someone turning off the lights one by one. That's ② what Alzheimer's disease does. It turns off the lights, so that the flow of ideas, emotions and memories from one room to the next ③ slows and eventually ceases. And sadly, as anyone who has ever watched a parent or a spouse ④ to yield to the spreading darkness knows, there is no way to stop the lights ⑤ from going off, no way to switch them back on once they've grown dim.

* Alzheimer's disease 노인성 치매

> The bush dog of South America has short legs but wide paws. It lives near rivers, so the short legs and wide paws help it to swim. The maned wolf lives in the grasslands of South America. It has long, thin legs. With them, the wolf can look out over the tall grasses. The Arctic fox has tiny ears and thick fur. As you can tell from its name, it lives in the frozen North. There, the temperature can drop to 50 degrees or more below zero. Because the fox's ears are so small, they don't lose much heat. And the extra-thick fur helps keep the fox warm. * maned 갈기가 있는

33. 다음 글의 요지로 가장 적절한 것은?

Suddenly compact discs with titles such as "The Mozart Effect" and "Baroque for Baby" began appearing in stores. Many parents seemed to believe that if their babies heard Mozart's music, their IQs might increase. It was called "The Mozart Effect." But there is no evidence that playing Mozart to babies will raise their IQs. The original study in 1993 showed only that spatial-temporal abilities of college students who participated in the experiment temporarily increased. And no one else has been able to show the same result. Even the researchers who performed the study never claimed it would increase a baby's IQ. If you want to buy "The Mozart Effect" CDs, just go ahead. But it is foolish to expect "The Mozart Effect" to be real.

Expect the Unexpected! You should prepare yourself to be tolerant of uncomfortable bus trips and unfamiliar food. You may encounter people with different concepts about time and personal space. Be ready to learn about and observe differences. The differences you observe while abroad will undoubtedly enrich your understanding of your own culture. Try to learn as much as possible about local customs, beliefs, and language. Talk to others who have been to your destination and seek opportunities to see movies and read up on the country and culture.

> Then how did this land get its name?

Greenland, the largest island in the world, is just about the most ungreen place on earth! (①) Most of this island, which is more than three times as large as Texas, is continually covered with ice and snow. (②) This ice sheet is two miles thick in some places. (③) There are no forests in Greenland ; there are just some trees, shrubs, and mosses in the southern part and along the coasts. (④) In 982, a Scandinavian explorer named Eric the Red sailed to Greenland and spent three years there. (⑤) When he returned home, he called the land he had seen "Greenland" in the hope of convincing some of his followers to settle there.

36. 밑줄 친 view와 문맥상 가장 유사한 의미를 가진 낱말은?

The countryside where I grew up is very isolated. You can drive along the seaside road for miles without seeing another car. In all directions you look at, it looks like a breathtaking vista. The view is especially dramatic, with giant dark cliffs rising out of the water. Such a remote environment is a perfect place to relax. It brings out the artist in me. I often take my paints and a canvas and try to capture the exciting feel of the shoreline.

① opinion ② scenery ③ purpose
④ photograph ⑤ attitude

37. 빈 칸 (A)와 (B)에 가장 적절한 것끼리 짝지은 것은?

Eagles, soaring high and fearless, have always made people think of strength, freedom, and courage. (A) , countries, empires, and rulers from ancient Egypt up to the modern United States have made eagles their symbol. Most Americans have seen enough pictures and emblems to recognize an eagle. (B) , few know much about the bird. Even people who study birds, do not know a great deal. It is difficult to study the eagle's habits because it is dangerous and fierce. Also, it nests high up in trees or on cliffs which are difficult to reach.

38. 다음 글에서 필자가 주장하는 바로 가장 적절한 것은?

Steve Blass was a great pitcher in 1972. In fact, he was one of the very best. One year later, he was on his way out of baseball. Did he get hurt? No. Only one thing changed: he lost his confidence. He said, "When it was gone, it was gone for good." He started thinking about all the things that could go wrong, and suddenly they did. Steve Blass no longer believed he could be a major league pitcher, and before he knew it, he no longer was a major league pitcher. The ability to do anything must be accompanied by the belief that we can do it. If you don't believe in yourself, you won't be able to perform.

① 할 수 있다는 자신감을 가져라.
② 성공을 위해 철저히 준비해라.
③ 실패를 성공의 발판으로 삼아라.
④ 실현 가능성이 없는 꿈은 버려라.
⑤ 자신의 부족함을 솔직히 인정해라.

39. 다음 글에서 전체 흐름과 관계 없는 문장은?

Snowboarding was one of the first extreme sports, and many people thought that the first snowboarders were troublemakers. ① Skiers didn't like them because their clothes were different and they didn't always follow the rules. ② Many ski resorts didn't allow snowboarding in the 1980s. ③ Today, however, most ski resorts welcome snowboarders. ④ Early snowboard designs were very simple, but they have improved a lot over the years. ⑤ Some even have special areas where snowboarders can jump over things and try new tricks.

Dear Ms. Frye:

We thank you for your order on March 15 for electric shavers, but regret that we cannot supply them immediately.

(A)

We are sorry your order cannot be sent immediately. But we hope that delivery at the beginning of next month will not cause you serious inconvenience. Please respond quickly.

Yours faithfully,
David Murrow

① As all items were in stock, they have been dispatched to you today. We hope you will find these goods satisfactory.
② We feel you may be particularly interested in our Model F shaver, our newest model. Last November we started selling the new model and it's excellent.
③ Unfortunately we are at present out of stock of the make ordered. If you could wait until the end of this month, we can deliver your order promptly.
④ All the models illustrated can be supplied from stock at competitive prices. Please visit our showrooms. It would then be possible to demonstrate the various models.
⑤ Considering the quality of the goods, we do not feel that the prices of the shavers are excessive. However, we are prepared to offer you a special discount.

If people want to be successful in multinational business, they must understand the cultures of other countries and learn how to adapt to them. It's important for them to avoid business decisions that are based on misconceptions—mistaken ideas. One cause of them is the belief that one's own culture's way of doing things is better than the way of other cultures. To avoid this, it's necessary to study the elements of culture.

A knowledge of the local __(A)__ can help an international businessperson in some ways. First, the person can communicate directly, without someone else to translate or explain. Moreover, people are usually more open in their communication with someone who speaks their language.

__(B)__ influences everything about people, including their work habits. In the United States, people talk about the Protestant work ethic, which simply means a belief that people should work hard and save their money. In many Asian countries, the same idea is called the Confucian work ethic.

International businesses need to understand the __(C)__ of other countries, or they will probably have difficulty selling their products. For example, an American orange juice company in France will have a problem if it sells orange juice as a breakfast drink because the French don't drink juice with breakfast.

(A)

Sometimes I get mail from kids whom I have taught in my writing class. They talk about their school, friends, family, and even dating and love! I smile at their stories, replying to their mail. One thing I notice in each piece of mail is that they all use strange language. People say that it's part of Internet culture and Internet users like to speak this colloquial language.

(B)

But what I really worry about is that the new language used by the youth on the Internet is becoming even more common than proper Korean. The strange language has already made its way into the children's diaries and homework. When they become grown-ups, two different languages might be used in Korea. They might think Korean used by older generations is an alien language. It's really scary just imagining it.

(C)

However, the language sounds strange to me. They mix Chinese characters, Japanese characters, numbers, and symbols in a strange way, and I can't figure out what they are trying to say. It is a scary thing. Beyond distorting and abbreviating words, it completely destroys the existing language. Some people say I shouldn't take it so seriously. They think it's funny and it's just a trend among young people online. At any age, the young generation has always wanted to create its own world, separate from the older generations.

An old man got on a train with a gorgeous hat his son bought for him. A young man beside him saw the hat on his lap and said, "Look, how elegant it is! Where did you get it?" The old man said, "My son bought it at H. S. department store for me." The young man stealthily slipped his calling card into the hat and yelled, "A few weeks ago, I bought the same hat at H. S. department store and stuck my calling card inside the hat, but the hat was stolen the other day. Now I see the calling card in your hat, so it must be mine. Now give it back to me."

The old man thought for a while what he should do. At last the old man handed the hat to the young man and said, "In fact, I'm a farmer and a few days ago, in a moonless night, a thief stole my favorite cow and dropped this hat unconsciously. You are insisting that this hat is yours. Thank God, you can take your lost hat and I can take my stolen cow back." At this the young man hesitantly said, "May I be excused a moment? Nature calls me." The young man stood up and went away in a hurry, leaving the hat behind. He never returned!

Far into the forest stood a little pine tree. Since it had plenty of fresh air and sunshine, it grew well. When Christmas came, many young trees were cut. "Where are they going?" the pine tree asked. "They are going to (a) the town," twittered the sparrows. "There they are dressed in gold and silver and placed in the middle of warm rooms and the children worship them." "How I wish that would happen to me!" sighed the tree. "My sweet, you already have real blessings!" said the sun, but the tree did not understand. The pine tree was restless and impatient and always wanted to get away.

The next time Christmas came, the pine tree was the first tree to be cut down. The tree rejoiced to think it was at last to be taken and made beautiful with decorations. The pine tree was taken by truck to a large, beautiful house and placed in a tub filled with sand. There, people hung it with beautiful ornaments and fastened (b) a lot of colored bulbs to its branches. "If only they would light the bulbs," thought the proud tree. "How splendid I would look!"

Finally, the bulbs were lit and the tree became (c) a sparkling, glittering mass. The tree was very proud of its beauty. "If only the other trees in the forest could see me now, how envious they would be!" thought the tree.

But Christmas was soon over and the pine tree was discarded and thrown into the yard. It lay there sadly, (d) its dry needles falling off one by one. Finally, a man came and chopped it up for firewood. In the fireplace, the wood blazed brightly, but it sighed so deeply that every sigh was like the short explosion from a gun. The tree thought of (e) its life in the forest as it burned and turned into ashes.
